Relentless Reliability. Steadfast Integrity. Superior Customer Service

VertiGO Notification offers the Next Generation of Notification by offering a fully integrated solution that provides unique capabilities and features currently not being offered in the industry. Public and private organizations use our notification and call-handling solutions to relieve their call center, respond to a crisis, protect people, mobilize first responders, and much more. Our notification solution provides a suite of web-based, vendor-hosted solutions for high-speed notification. Our system features both inbound and outbound messaging, with applications ranging from outage reporting to business continuity, employee accountability, and mass public notification.

The VertiGO Notification system is designed for multi-modal communication of emergency and non-emergency alerts, which can be sent over wire line, cellular and Internet protocol channels, capable of reaching landline, cell phone, VoIP phone, PDA, pager, SMS, email, fax, and TTY/TTD for the hearing impaired. It runs on the largest, most robust telecom platform in North America, co-located with the major long distance telephone carriers' POP sites, with redundant calling and data centers dispersed across the entire United States. Our solution requires no hardware, no software, and no additional phone lines.

As an industry pioneer, VertiGO remains at the forefront of communication technologies, industry trends and best practices to deliver its clients the most integrated and effective communications system available. The robust features of VertiGO Notification brings our clients advanced alerting capabilities, which will improve both internal and public communications, will increase the effectiveness of emergency efforts, and ultimately reduce the costs of a traditional communications infrastructure.
